

MALAYSIAN TECHNICAL COOPERATION PROGRAMME (MTCP)

The Malaysian Technical Cooperation Programme (MTCP) was first initiated at the First Commonwealth Heads of Government Regional Meeting (CHOGRM) for Asia Pacific Region in Sydney in February 1978. It was officially launched on 7 September 1980 at the 2nd CHOGRM in New Delhi, India, to signify Malaysia's commitment to South-South Cooperation, in particular Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries (TCDC).

In line with the spirit of South-South Cooperation, Malaysia through the MTCP shares its development experiences and expertise with other developing countries.

Since its inception in 1980, more than 33,000 participants from 144 recipient countries have benefited from the various programmes offered under the MTCP. More information at MTCP website : www.mtcp.kln.gov.my.

OBJECTIVES

- ❖ To share development experiences with other countries;
- ❖ To strengthen bilateral relations between Malaysia and other developing countries;
- ❖ To promote South-South Cooperation; and
- ❖ To promote technical cooperation among developing countries.

INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC POLICY AND MANAGEMENT

The University of Malaya, International Institute of Public Policy and Management has established itself as one of the leading resource centres for public policy and human resource management in the region. This has been achieved through carefully crafted strategies and by consistently benchmarking itself against the best global practices in public policy. Along with a clear recognition of current national, and social international developments in the political, economic, and social spheres, the University of Malaya International Institute of Public Policy and Management outlook and perspective are constantly shaped. As an example, in the wake of the recent turmoil in the North Africa and the Middle East, our institute seeks to analyse, dialogue, debate and monitor its implications on public policies at both the international and national levels.

Over the years, the University of Malaya, International Institute of Public Policy and Management has succeeded in contributing to the intellectual discourse on public policy issues in Malaysia through forums, conferences and public lectures. These events revolve around topical and important public policy issues such as good governance in higher education, the impact of I.R. 4.0 in bridging the urban-rural (or generational) divide, sustainable development, promotion of Malaysia as a halal hub, as well as development issues close to the heart of the civil society. They are designed to provide platforms to policy makers, leaders and the mass media to exchange and articulate ideas pertaining to policy issues. Our institute, invariably, acts as an intellectual laboratory which tests out the best possible inputs for public policy-making.

In accordance with its multi-disciplinary focus, the institute seeks to collaborate with the public and private sectors in research programmes with the humanities and social sciences. A broader understanding of public policy and management is gained through this cross-fertilisation and this has helped to place our institute in a coveted position as one of the distinguished public policy institutions in Southeast Asia.

ACADEMIC PROGRAMME

The Master of Public Policy (MPP) provides rigorous on-campus training. The MPP is offered at a post-graduate level and is geared to the needs of practising or prospective managers who wish to acquire or enhance the skills necessary for effective and responsible public sector management and policy analysis. The programme will equip candidates with knowledge in the fields of public policy processes and affairs in local and global contexts, and with theoretical and methodological skills in public policy issues.

The programme is designed for highly talented and highly motivated students who want to pursue a career in the public sector, non-profit organisations or private businesses, whether on the local, regional, national or international level. The interdisciplinary programme equips candidates with the scientific knowledge and practical experience they will need to advance the public interest by making policy decisions on a rational basis and by implementing policy programs effectively.

BACKGROUND

The impact of globalisation on economics, politics, workforce, and policies is tremendous that require us to form new ways of thinking for sustainability and societal management in a multicultural society. Diversity management is pertinent in meeting the needs for globalisation. Diversity and inclusivity should be positively valued and promoted to support multicultural understandings and towards the development of peace and unity at both national and international level. Awareness and sensitivity of the differences in an organisation are critical in managing conflicts - such as cultural marginalisation, socio-economic inequity, and colonial displacement (particularly on identity building) - and for building peace and stability. Negotiation is the key to a positive multicultural society that is usually demonstrated in good governance principles and national policy. This training programme offers the nation-building and developmental experiences of Malaysia - a country characterised by distinct ethnic, religious and cultural differences - as informative and instructive lessons to the participating countries. Given that Malaysia has been able to develop while avoiding serious conflict or disintegration as a multicultural society, it can therefore offer its successful nation-building experience as a model to post-conflict countries which are committed to fulfilling the goals and agenda of national reconciliation and reconstruction. In effect, many of Malaysia's policies and accompanying programmes have contributed to enduring peace and stability.

OBJECTIVES

- To enhance the understanding of multiculturalism via lessons from the experiences of other plural societies, particularly Malaysia, amongst participants from Southeast Asia, West Asia and Africa;
- To impart relevant knowledge and skills to participants, particularly in the areas of human security and peace-building in a multicultural environment;
- To instill the principles of constitutionalism, institution building, and good governance in the context of multiculturalism amongst the participants as representative of their respective countries;
- To enable the development of viable public policies and political mechanisms in managing potential areas of conflict in order to attain the goals of peace, security and nation building;
- To develop greater understanding and closer relations between Malaysia and participating countries of Asia and Africa; and
- To provide a platform for participants to establish professional networks with Malaysian public officials/counterparts, and other organisations.

PROGRAMME DURATION

The duration of the programme is ten days. It will be held from 22 September - 1 October 2019.

TARGETED PARTICIPANTS

The total number of candidates is limited to twenty-four (24), comprising of public officials (middle and senior levels) from ASEAN member countries. However, public officials from other regions are also encouraged to apply.

SEMINAR PRESENTATION

Participants will be assigned to a group of four (4) to five (5) members with a specific topic which is relevant to their work experience in their respective organisations. As part of this training programme, each group will present their practical and workable cases. Several senior academicians/officials will be invited to evaluate the presentations.

Participants are required to bring research materials that may be helpful in preparing for their seminar presentation and proposals and these presentations must incorporate lessons learned throughout the duration of their training programme in Malaysia.
