Having been inspired by EU CBRN CoE Initiative project P-57/58, and coordinated by Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Federal Police Directorate.

The program, titled “Forensic Processing of a Crime Scene in a Specific CBRN Environment – CBRN Crime Scene 2025,” included a final demonstration of acquired skills on May 16. Two CBRN forensic trainers from Project P-57, together with five CSI colleagues from the Federal Police Directorate, trained 15 officers from key police units including forensics, special forces, and operational criminal technique. To ensure sustainability, a backup team will also be trained by the end of 2025. All 17 participants received certificates from the Federal Minister of Interior and the Director of the Police Academy, marking a significant step in developing national capacity to respond to CBRN incidents and contributing to future EU CBRN projects and judicial processes.

Book promotion in Denmark

The Embassy of Bosnia and Herzegovina in the Kingdom of Denmark organized a book promotion of Narcisa Vučina, renowned Bosnian and Danish author entitled "The Button and the Book"

Published by the American publishing house Spuyten Duyvil in New York, the novel is a powerful and poetic exploration of love, survival, and the intergenerational impact of war and exile. Inspired by true events, it traces the journey of a woman navigating trauma under two dictatorships, personal loss, and spiritual transformation. Ambassador Kundurović Miljak expressed her support for the author, emphasizing the importance of nurturing cultural identity and dialogue among citizens of Bosnia and Herzegovina living abroad. Following the presentation, the author held a book signing and engaged with guests during a cocktail reception. The Embassy of Bosnia and Herzegovina in Copenhagen remains committed to supporting initiatives that celebrate Bosnian-Herzegovinian culture, language, and creative expression, while strengthening ties within diaspora in Denmark.

Hutovo blato Nature park

"Hutovo blato" as an exceptional habitat for numerous plant and animal species has been mentioned since ancient times. After World War II, "Hutovo blato" was protected exclusively as an elite hunting ground. The history of "Hutovo blato" as a protected part of nature begins on June 3, 1954, when the "Hutovo blato" ornithological reserve of 6,144 ha was established.

As part of the ornithological reserve, in 1959, a strict bird reserve, Škrka (350 ha), was separated, closed to fishing, hunting and other economically profitable activities. Due to its international significance, "Hutovo blato" was included in the "List of Wetlands of International Importance" in 1971, and in 1980 it was included in the "International Project for the Protection of Mediterranean Wetlands".
