INFORMATION ABOUT MALAYSIAN TECHNICAL COOPERATION PROGRAMME

The Malaysian Technical Cooperation Programme (MTCP) was first initiated at the First Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM) for Asia Pacific Region in Sydney in February 1978. It was officially launched on 7 September 1980 at the Commonwealth Heads of State Meeting in New Delhi to signify Malaysia's commitment to South-South Cooperation, in particular Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries (TCDC).

In line with the spirit of South-South Cooperation, Malaysia through the MTCP shares its development experiences and expertise with other developing countries. The MTCP was first formulated based on the belief that the development of a country depends on the quality of its human resources. The programme forms part of the commitment of the Malaysian Government towards the promotion of technical cooperation among developing countries, strengthening of regional and sub-regional cooperation, as well as nurturing collective self-reliance among developing countries.

The MTCP emphasises the development of human resources through the provision of training in various areas which are essential for a country's development such as public administration, good governance, health services, education, sustainable development, agriculture, poverty alleviation, investment promotion, ICT and banking. Annually more than 80 short-term specialised courses are offered by 80 MTCP training institutions, many of which are centres of excellence for training. Since its launching, more than 32,000 participants from 143 countries have benefited from the various programmes offered under the MTCP.

RAZAK SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

INFORMATION ABOUT RAZAK SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

The Malaysia of today is different from the Malaysia of a decade ago. It is a completely new era that simply compels a new formula of success. It is beyond rhetoric to suggest that a paradigm shift is needed in meeting the expectations of a more open, complex, demanding and nuanced society. Succeeding in new and challenging environments requires the Malaysian public service to take an honest and critical stock of its' new environment and realities versus its current state.

During the National Budget Speech in 2010, the sixth Prime Minister of Malaysia, The Hon. Dato' Sri Mohd. Najib bin Tun Abdul Razak articulated the Government's Intentions to forming a "school of government" with a global brand and reputation. He delivered a Vision of an institution with greater autonomy that will provide higher quality professional teaching and leadership development that would build high-performing and knowledgeable pools of public service leaders for the nation. This was further articulated in the 10th Malaysian Plan tabled in Parliament on 10 June 2010.

The Razak School of Government was formed for the realities of tomorrow. It came to being to serve the fundamental needs of a developed Malaysia in 2020 and beyond. The terms of School has been formed to serving a developed Malaysia society.

Launched on 8 October 2010 by The Hon. Dato' Sri Mohd. Najib bin Tun Abdul Razak, the School has been mandated to groom the future public sector leaders of Malaysia across all service sectors. The formation of RSOG is therefore very much at the heart of the transformation of the public service sector – engine of the Government Transformation Programme, GTP.
